Where I'm From
I'm originally from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, and moved to Halifax for university. I graduated from Mount Saint Vincent University in May 2026 with a Bachelor of Arts in Child and Youth Studies. I also am a Level 3 ECE.
I've always been passionate about working with children, particularly supporting children with diverse needs and abilities. I love seeing how curious the children are when they explore open-ended materials like loose parts. It's so fascinating to me. I love exploring, learning, and celebrating the little moments with children.

A quote I live by is "Enjoy the little things." I believe the smallest moments, connections, and discoveries can make the biggest difference!

I believe some of life's most meaningful moments come from the simplest experiences. Whether it is a small conversation, a new discovery, or a meaningful connection with a child or family, these little moments can have such a lasting impact

Values: Acceptance, curiosity, empathy, inclusivity, kindness and connection

Inspired by: My family and my husband are my biggest inspirations. I also find inspiration in disability advocates, individuals and families who share their stories and promote awareness, inclusion and acceptance.

Hobbies: I love thrifting, collecting colorful and vintage clothing, baking, watching movies, and a good series (esp. vintage-era inspired shows) trying new foods, and travelling the world.

Favourite part of working at Allegro: I love how supportive and welcoming everyone is, and how willing the staff are to share feedback and help one another grow. I also love the children's curiosity, intelligence and the opportunity to learn alongside them every day.

Favourite Children's Book: This is how we talk: A celebration of disability and connection by Jessica Slice and Caroline Cupp. Also, love The Very Hungry Caterpillar by Eric Carle

A guilty pleasure:
Dark chocolate, a good piece of cake, trying new foods and getting carried away in conversations.
